Santi Cosma e Damiano

Category: Catholic Church

business description: The old parish Church of San Damiano: the parish church was very old, dating at least to the fourteenth century. In 1369, the priest Andrea, from Monte Marzino, was rector and minister of San Damiano. It is located in the valley to the east of the town, the cemetery was opposite it and the Rectory, now a house, was beside it. There was an altar dedicated to Saint Anthony under the patronage of the Lunassi family.
In 1809 it was abandoned and replaced by a new church built in the village.
All that remains is some of the perimeter wall in stone, well worked showing antiquity, good artistic taste and prosperity in the population.

The current parish Church of Santi Cosma e Damiano: the Parish church was built in 1809 by the population who was tired of quarreling with the Guidobono Patrons over the continuous shifting of responsibilities to repair the old church.
The high altar is partly composed of one purchased in Tortona from a suppressed church. The altar of the Sacred Heart was built by Rev. Don Santi in memory of the soldiers who were killed in the 15/18 war.
